To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing this letter to express my support for ThrivePoint High School, a free, public charter school designed to support students through its personalized approach to their educational experience, emphasizing credit recovery, mastery-based learning, and access to caring staff that prioritize the needs and goals of each student.

As an educator, serving as a part-time professor at UNLV, I am in a unique position to see the classroom from the eyes of my students. One thing that impressed me about ThrivePoint High School is its emphasis on individualized attention for each student. This approach recognizes that every student is unique and has different needs and provides the support they need to succeed.

This model has been well-received in both Arizona and California, and I think it will benefit the students here in Las Vegas. I believe that this school will be an invaluable resource for students in our community, and I fully support its charter school application.

Sincerely,
